WHY WE MADE IT

For Canva creators

Designers, social content creators, and marketers using Canva need a seamless way to gather stakeholder feedback without breaking their creative flow. Jumping between email threads or internal communication tools slows teams down.

The PageProof app for Canva streamlines review and approval – saving time, reducing rework, and making gathering approvals stress-free.

Available from the Canva Apps Marketplace.

FEATURE DEEP DIVE

No more herding cats

The PageProof app for Canva lets designers and content creators send their Canva creative work out for review, gather feedback, and manage approvals – all without leaving Canva.

With a click, Canva files can be sent as a proof to PageProof – into a workflow with automated reminders and optional reviewer checklists. Feedback and approvals are gathered in one place, with a full version history and a secure audit trail every step of the way.

Effortless proofs. Fast approvals.

With the PageProof app inside Canva, you can:

- Create new proofs and versions directly from your Canva designs
- See feedback and comments in context alongside your design
- Download attachments, reply to comments, place comment text, and action feedback without switching tools
- Mark comments as done to keep your workflow clear and organized.

From social media graphics, videos, and presentations, the app makes sure your designs move from first draft to final sign-off faster.
